

September 5, 2016 is Labour Day

Labour Day is a time when many Canadians can relax and unwind from work or studies.

What Do People Do?

Traditionally, Labour Day was an occasion to campaign for and celebrate workers' rights during parades and picnics organized by trade unions. These still play a role in Labour Day for some Canadians, but many people see the first Monday in September as an opportunity to take a late summer trip, perhaps to their country cottage, or enjoy the company of family or friends at picnics, fairs, festivals and fireworks displays. For teenagers and other students, the Labour Day weekend is the last chance to celebrate with a party or to go on a trip before school re-opens for the new academic year.

A bus load of tourists arrives at Runnymede. They gather around the guide who says, 'This is the spot where the barons forced King John to sign the Magna Carta.'

A fellow at the front of the crowd asks, 'When did that happen?'

'1215', answers the guide.

The man looks at his watch and says, 'Gee whiz , We just missed it by half an hour .

National Grandparents Day, Sept 11th

This was made a national celebration by President Jimmy Carter in 1978, for the first Sunday after Labour day. It's especially meaningful for kids to appreciate the lives and contributions of older family members , no matter what age. This is a great time to share stories and look through photo albums from the past.

Fun Facts about Grandparents Day

The official song of the day is A Song for Grandma & Grandpa by Johnny Prill

The official flower is the forget-me-not as a reminder we shouldn't forget our grandparents and how important they are to us.

If you don't have grandparents that live near you, then it's encouraged to visit nursing homes or elderly neighbors and adopt a grandparent that you can visit and get to know.
